New account log-in information

Lead researchers for proposals can create a new account for this site by entering a username and password on this page. The lead researcher is the person responsible for the intellectual leadership and the overall management of the research. He/she is the main contact for the request and acts as guarantor for the accuracy of the information presented in the research proposal. There can only be one lead researcher for each request.

On the following pages you will be asked to provide contact and some biographical information about yourself and your employer, research institution or other affiliation. After the account is created you will be able to submit your research proposal or enquiry.

New account creation only needs to be done once. After you have created an account you can come back at anytime and simply log-in to access your information.
